G. WASHINGTON WAS BALANCED MAN SAYS FOX

Columbia Professor Says First President Was Understood By People.

TALKS TO LARGE AUDIENCE TODAY

Tracing the life of George Washington, the rise and fall of his popularity from time to time, Prof. Dixon Ryan Fox, professor of American history at Columbia university, New York, gave an interesting and inspiring lecture in the Majestic theatre before a large crowd this morning, under the auspices of Gettysburg college.

"Progress had been made by knowing tradition, by studying history in order to know what paths to take in the future," said Professor Fox. "It is these studies that change the viewpoints in history and also due to them that textbooks are necessarily revised."

The first man to exalt Washington as a national hero was John Marshall, according to Professor Fox. Marshall wrote five volumes on history and in them placed Washington on a high throne. About the time of the 1870's the scholars of history began to study the Tory viewpoints of the Revolution and to inquire into the colonial system of England. Finally, in the early years of the present century, text books began to depress the personality of Washington, mostly due to the intensive studies of the historians, said the speaker.

Personality Suffered

Washington's personality has suffered because of three fundamental causes, according to Professor Fox. The first of these has been the change of the modern writers to the causes and results of events rather than the exalting of an individual. Secondly, as history is constantly being made, more emphasis is being made on modern history and less on the figures of the past. Thirdly, biographies have been written to prove that the great men in the past have been human, having their weaknesses and defects. These factors have not only been true in Washington's popularity but also in the popularity of other great personages in history.

"George Washington was not an average man but a balanced man," continued the speaker. "He was great because he was representative of his people and because of being representative, was understood by the people."

His greatness was attributed to many reasons. Although having had but little schooling, Washington became a great patron of the arts,

TWO FINED FOR STEALING CAR

Emmitsburg Men Admit Theft Of Physician's Machine.

Testimony of a taxi-driver who had driven them to a Hagerstown hospital for treatment and later to their home in Emmitsburg Sunday, February 7, after they had wrecked a stolen car, proved the clinching point in the state's case against Joseph Geiselman and Franklin Brawner before Justice J. Henry Stokes in Emmitsburg Monday. Brawner, the driver of the car, was finde $40 and costs and Geiselman was fined $25 and costs on charges of unauthorized use. Both paid the fines.

The stolen automobile, belonging to Dr. W. R. Cadle, Emmitsburg physician, was taken from in front of his home about 2 a. m. on February 7. Later it was found wrecked, near Hagerstown. The two Emmitsburg youths were known to have returned to their homes with lacerations and bruises later on February 7 and were suspected, but no proof had been established.

When they went to bring back the wrecked automobile to Emmitsburg, State Officer Imla Hubbard and Dr. Cadle talked to the taxi-driver and obtained the evidence against the youths. The cab man said he picked the two youths up at the scene of Dr. Cadle's wrecked car on February 7 and took them to a Hagerstown hospital, where they were treated, and afterward took them to their homes in Emmitsburg.

Faced with this evidence Monday, the youths admitted their guilt and entered pleas of guilty to unauthorized use. The fines were then meted out. Dr. Cadle's car was damaged to the extent of about $200, it was stated.

Hausfrau Out, Fraulein Wins

There was an uproar when Germans discovered that the beauty selected to bear the title "Miss Germany 1932" wasn't a "fraulein" at all, but a "frau." It's against the rules for a married woman to be "Miss Germany." So the honor was transferred to pretty Fraulein Liselotte de Booy (above), who had been second in the judging.

Mellon and ex-Wife Reconciled, Rumors in Washington Insist

Washington, Feb. 17.—When former Secretary of the Treasury Mellon goes to England within the next two weeks to take up his new post as ambassador to the Court of St. James, will he take with him the wife he divorced twenty years ago or will he go as a single man?

This is the question that is agitating the capital at the present time with persistent rumors answering both in the negative and the affirmative.

Gossip on the one side insists that Mr. Mellon intends to remarry his divorced wife. In fact, there are those who state with conviction that he already has. But there are also those on the other side who believe that remarriage is the last thing the new ambassador has in mind, either as a present or a future possibility.

But, whichever rumor proves to be correct, one thing seems to be certain—an apparent reconciliation between the couple has taken place. For many years the former Mrs. Mellon refused to live in this country; but recently she returned to Washington. Although the former secretary of the treasury supported his ex-wife handsomely, for a long time they held no communication whatsoever; but she is now at the estate of her son, near Middleburg, Virginia, and Mr. Mellon visits them frequently.

The estate itself, an expensive 400-acre piece of land in the hunting district within fifty miles of Washington, is pointed to by those who favor the remarriage rumor as a bit of evidence on their side. For, they insist, although it is in the name of Mr. Mellon's son, who has just completed his university career, it is an imposing place for a young man of 25, even though that young man has one of the richest men in the world as his father.

2 Airminded U. S. Sailors Land In the Brig Instead of Europe

New York, Feb. 17.—Earthbound by the laws of gravity, two sailors, after three unsuccessful efforts to fly across the Atlantic in a second-hand plane, are held at the Brooklyn navy yard on charges of being stragglers from the United States navy.

While they, intent on winning fame for themselves and their ship, the Louisville, were making repeated attempts to get their overloaded craft into the air at Floyd Bennett field for the ocean flight, the cruiser sailed for Cuba without them. They returned to the navy yard too late to join the ship, but in time to escape classification—and punishment—as deserters

The two airminded seamen—Andrew Soos, Jr., of Fairfield Connecticut, and Frank Cushing, of Seattle—had been photographers in the navy and had experienced considerable flying, although neither was a licensed pilot or an accomplished airman.

They had saved the extra money earned as photographers until they had about $1,400, with which they intended to launch the cheapest flight ever made across the Atlantic. They were able to make the flight sound so easy and plausible on paper that their comrades on the Louisville took an interest and subscribed $600. The $2,000 was to represent the entire cost of the expedition.

While the Louisville was at the Brooklyn yard, the sailors bought themselves a 4-year-old plane and devoted themselves to tuning it up and studying the maps. They studied nautical charts by the hour, and decided the best way to make the flight was to stick to the fortieth parallel. They figured that they could not go wrong while they stuck to a round number like that.

But an insuperable obstacle confronted them at every turn and this was the law of gravity. It held their plane to the ground every time they tried to take wing, because it was overloaded. And it had to be overloaded to carry enough gasoline to make the flight.

On the third attempted take-off the damage was so great that they could not hope to repair it, and they decided that the safest thing was to rejoin the navy at once.

SHANGHAI IS QUIET AFTER NIGHT BATTLE

Both Factions Renew Efforts To End Fighting; Bring More Artillery.

TWO BRITISH SAILORS KILLED

Shanghai, Thursday, Feb. 18 (AP).—Shaken by the guns which had bombarded Chapei all night Shanghai was quiet early this morning as the cannonading came to an end.

More artillery was being brought up to the lines of Chapei and Woosung but there was no concrete indication that the expected Japanese offensive was ready to begin.

On the contrary both sides have renewed their efforts to bring an end to the fighting. The Japanese command indicated they would give ample warning before launching the thunderbolt and leading Chinese officials were trying to agree on a basis for peace.

Until late last night Wellington Koo and other outstanding Chinese leaders were in conference but they had nothing to say for publication. The American, British and French ministers who took a hand in the negotiations last week said they would not go back to Nanking until Saturday or Sunday.

Two British sailors, put ashore with a landing party from the cruiser Suffolk, died of wounds inflicted when shells from the Chapei front burst on the Whangpoo docks where they were on patrol. Police said 45 shells had fallen in the settlement during the day, killing five Chinese and wounding 17.

REPORTS THEFT OF $40 IN CASH

H. J. Rothhaupt Accuses Claude Loss, Of Hanover, Of Stealing Money.

On oath of H. J. Rothhaupt, Gettysburg, Claude Loss, Hanover, was arrested there, Tuesday, on a charge of larceny. In default of bail, Loss was committed to the York county jail for a hearing before Justice of the Peace I. R. Witmer, Hanover, next Tuesday evening.

Rothhaupt reported that he had $40 stolen from him at Chet's restaurant, Hanover, early Tuesday morning, while he was in the place paying for a purchase of gasoline.

Several persons who are alleged to have been in the place at the time were questioned, including a Hanover girl, and upon the strength of their statements, Loss was taken in custody.

Loss is said to have told Hanover police that Rothhaupt had been in the "restaurant" all night and that his story of a gas purchase was untrue.

Loss said he did pick a $20 bill off the floor and hand it to one of the party, not knowing to whom the money belonged. The person to whom Loss said he handed the money was called into headquarters and denied that he had received the money, charging that Loss was trying to use him as protection. Loss expressed the belief that he is being "framed."

Patrolmen Ordered To Be Fair, Square Shooters But Hard Ones

"Be square and fair shooters but hard ones. Enforce the law fairly and honestly."

The above is from an order recently given the Pennsylvania state highway patrol by Secretary of Revenue Clyde L. King, under whose direction the patrol functions.

"The highway patrol," he continued, "is of value to the state only just so long as its duty is placed above interference. If local or other pressure should interfere with you in the performance of your duty we want to know about it."

Discussing the work of the patrol, the secretary said:

"Pennsylvania was the first state to realize that in return for license fees the motorist demanded protection on the highways as well as good roads. He wanted protection for his property and for himself and his family. This insistence was met by the organization of the state highway patrol — a motorcycle-mounted force of well-trained and well-disciplined young men—a force free from local affiliations and political pressure.

"Common sense has been used in distributing this relatively small force of 515 men so as to obtain the maximum protection for the motorist. The rule of the organization is to have highway patrolmen stationed at the most dangerous points at the most dangerous hours of the day to catch the most dangerous drivers. Where danger is greatest, where the road is iciest, wherever the law-abiding driver needs protection from the murderous, accident-making driver, there the patrol must be found.

"The men are available for night duty as well as day duty. Patrols no longer operate on schedule. A troop commander now has the authority to run a morning patrol or a night patrol or both. Afternoon patrols are made at varying hours. The motorist who now takes a chance to violate the law in the belief he knows the hours when patrols are not on the highways is likely to be the victim of his own wiseness. The troop commander is the best judge of traffic conditions in the area under his command."

Dad Seeking Coal Caught In Big Slide

Pottsville, Feb. 17 (AP)—Eight of the best miners of Silver Creek colliery were risking death today to rescue Joseph Batory, father of six children, entombed 17 hours under a slide of coal near this city. The man's head was uncovered at 9:30 o'clock this morning after he was buried under tons of coal during a slide which started at 7:30 o'clock last night. He was conscious and able to talk with his rescuers as they worked.

Efforts to dislodge him by moving his body from the shoulders was abandoned because the entombed man said the pain in his legs was unbearable.

Batory is reported to have gone to the mine with four other men last night to bootleg coal for their families. Batory forced his way through a shaft no greater in diameter than a large dishpan. When he had taken all the coal he desired he tried to back out of the narrow opening, but a fall of coal blocked his passage and buried him. What became of his companions Batory does not know.

CHURCHILL AND LINDSAY VISIT BATTLEFIELDS

AVOID PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION

Slipping into Gettysburg almost unnoticed and endeavoring to avoid any public demonstration, Winston Churchill, former British chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, England's ambassador to the United States, arrived here from Washington, D. C., at 12:50 o'clock this afternoon.

Motoring here from the national capital, the two distinguished Englishmen were accompanied only by a secret service man and their chauffeur. An escort of two Pennsylvania state highway motor patrolmen, Corporal R. G. Schwartz and Patrolman R. E. Wenner, of the local sub-station, met the Britishers' car at the Mason and Dixon line.

As soon as the two distinguished visitors arrived here, they went to the office of Col. E. E. Davis, superintendent of the national military park, where they ate a previously-prepared lunch.

Visit Cyclorama

Shortly after 2:45 o'clock Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay began their tour of the battlefield, with William H. Allison as their guide. Colonel Davis' automobile, appropriately decorated with American and British flags, led the way for the tour of the field.

One of the first stops was the cyclorama, which the two men had expressed a desire to see. Both Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay expressed pleasure with the large painting of Pickett's charge.

Other stops on the battlefield were made at Reynolds' monument, Little Round Top and Bloody Angle, and all along the tour the two distinguished visitors voiced their appreciation of the guide's recital. For both Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay the tour of the battlefield was their first, and both expressed the hope that they might return again soon.

Mr. Churchill, a rather stout man, still shows scars on his face, the result of being struck by a taxi-cab in New York city several weeks ago, shortly after he arrived from England for a lecture tour of the United States. Sir Lindsay is typically English, being almost six feet two inches tall, with a ruddy complexion.

2 Airminded U. S. Sailors Land In the Brig Instead of Europe

New York, Feb. 17.—Earthbound by the laws of gravity, two sailors, after three unsuccessful efforts to fly across the Atlantic in a second-hand plane, are held at the Brooklyn navy yard on charges of being stragglers from the United States navy.

While they, intent on winning fame for themselves and their ship, the Louisville, were making repeated attempts to get their overloaded craft into the air at Floyd Bennett field for the ocean flight, the cruiser sailed for Cuba without them. They returned to the navy yard too late to join the ship, but in time to escape classification—and punishment—as deserters.

The two airminded seamen—Andrew Soos Jr., of Fairfield Connecticut, and Frank Cushing of Seattle—had been photographers in the navy and had experienced considerable flying, although neither was a licensed pilot or an accomplished airman.

They had saved the extra money earned as photographers until they had about $1,400, with which they intended to launch the cheapest flight ever made across the Atlantic. They were able to make the flight sound so easy and plausible on paper that their comrades on the Louisville took an interest and subscribed $600. The $2,000 was to represent the entire cost of the expedition.

While the Louisville was at the Brooklyn yard, the sailors bought themselves a 4-year-old plane and devoted themselves to tuning it up and studying the maps. They studied nautical charts by the hour, and decided the best way to make the flight was to stick to the fortieth parallel. They figured that they could not go wrong while they stuck to a round number like that.

But an insuperable obstacle confronted them at every turn and this was the law of gravity. It held their plane to the ground every time they tried to take wing, because it was overloaded. And it had to be overloaded to carry enough gasoline to make the flight.

On the third attempted take-off the damage was so great that they could not hope to repair it, and they decided that the safest thing was to rejoin the navy at once.

SHANGHAI IS QUIET AFTER NIGHT BATTLE

Both Factions Renew Efforts To End Fighting; Bring More Artillery.

TWO BRITISH SAILORS KILLED

Shanghai, Thursday, Feb. 18 (AP).—Shaken by the guns which had bombarded Chapei all night Shanghai was quiet early this morning as the cannonading came to an end.

More artillery was being brought up to the lines of Chapei and Woosung but there was no concrete indication that the expected Japanese offensive was ready to begin.

On the contrary both sides have renewed their efforts to bring an end to the fighting. The Japanese command indicated they would give ample warning before launching the thunderbolt and leading Chinese officials were trying to agree on a basis for peace.

Until late last night Wellington Koo and other outstanding Chinese leaders were in conference but they had nothing to say for publication. The American, British and French ministers who took a hand in the negotiations last week said they would not go back to Nanking until Saturday or Sunday.

Two British sailors, put ashore with a landing party from the cruiser Suffolk, died of wounds inflicted when shells from the Chapei front burst on the Whangpoo docks where they were on patrol. Police said 45 shells had fallen in the settlement during the day, killing five Chinese and wounding 17.

REPORTS THEFT OF $40 IN CASH

H. J. Rothhaupt Accuses Claude Loss, Of Hanover, Of Stealing Money.

On oath of H. J. Rothhaupt, Gettysburg, Claude Loss, Hanover, was arrested there, Tuesday, on a charge of larceny. In default of bail, Loss was committed to the York county jail for a hearing before Justice of the Peace I. R. Witmer, Hanover, next Tuesday evening.

Rothhaupt reported that he had $40 stolen from him at Chet's restaurant, Hanover, early Tuesday morning, while he was in the place paying for a purchase of gasoline.

Several persons who are alleged to have been in the place at the time were questioned, including a Hanover girl, and upon the strength of their statements, Loss was taken in custody.

Loss is said to have told Hanover police that Rothhaupt had been in the "restaurant" all night and that his story of a gas purchase was untrue.

Loss said he did pick a $20 bill off the floor and hand it to one of the party, not knowing to whom the money belonged. The person to whom Loss said he handed the money was called into headquarters and denied that he had received the money, charging that Loss was trying to use him as protection. Loss expressed the belief that he is being "framed."

Patrolmen Ordered To Be Fair, Square Shooters But Hard Ones

"Be square and fair shooters but hard ones. Enforce the law fairly and honestly."

The above is from an order recently given the Pennsylvania state highway patrol by Secretary of Revenue Clyde L. King, under whose direction the patrol functions.

"The highway patrol," he continued, "is of value to the state only just so long as its duty is placed above interference. If local or other pressure should interfere with you in the performance of your duty we want to know about it."

Discussing the work of the patrol, the secretary said:

"Pennsylvania was the first state to realize that in return for license fees the motorist demanded protection on the highways as well as good roads. He wanted protection for his property and for himself and his family. This insistence was met by the organization of the state highway patrol — a motorcycle-mounted force of well-trained and well-disciplined young men—a force free from local affiliations and political pressure.

"Common sense has been used in distributing this relatively small force of 515 men so as to obtain the maximum protection for the motorist. The rule of the organization is to have highway patrolmen stationed at the most dangerous points at the most dangerous hours of the day to catch the most dangerous drivers. Where danger is greatest, where the road is iciest, wherever the law-abiding driver needs protection from the murderous, accident-making driver, there the patrol must be found.

"The men are available for night duty as well as day duty. Patrols no longer operate on schedule. A troop commander now has the authority to run a morning patrol or a night patrol or both. Afternoon patrols are made at varying hours. The motorist who now takes a chance to violate the law in the belief he knows the hours when patrols are not on the highways is likely to be the victim of his own wiseness. The troop commander is the best judge of traffic conditions in the area under his command."

Dad Seeking Coal Caught In Big Slide

Pottsville, Feb. 17 (AP)—Eight of the best miners of Silver Creek colliery were risking death today to rescue Joseph Batory, father of six children, entombed 17 hours under a slide of coal near this city. The man's head was uncovered at 9:30 o'clock this morning after he was buried under tons of coal during a slide which started at 7:30 o'clock last night. He was conscious and able to talk with his rescuers as they worked.

Efforts to dislodge him by moving his body from the shoulders was abandoned because the entombed man said the pain in his legs was unbearable.

WILL BUILD TWO GARAGES AT JAIL

At present, the jail has garage space for three cars, but when the improvements are completed room for two additional machines will be available.

The commissioners also inspected a concrete bridge over Bermudian creek between Bragtown and Two Churches, but no action on repairs and improvements was taken.

CHURCHILL AND LINDSAY VISIT BATTLEFIELDS

AVOID PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION

Slipping into Gettysburg almost unnoticed and endeavoring to avoid any public demonstration, Winston Churchill, former British chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, England's ambassador to the United States, arrived here from Washington, D. C., at 12:50 o'clock this afternoon.

Motoring here from the national capital, the two distinguished Englishmen were accompanied only by a secret service man and their chauffeur. An escort of two Pennsylvania state highway motor patrolmen, Corporal R. G. Schwartz and Patrolman R. E. Wenner, of the local sub-station, met the Britishers' car at the Mason and Dixon line.

As soon as the two distinguished visitors arrived here, they went to the office of Col. E. E. Davis, superintendent of the national military park, where they ate a previously-prepared lunch.

Visit Cyclorama

Shortly after 2:45 o'clock Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay began their tour of the battlefield, with William H. Allison as their guide. Colonel Davis' automobile, appropriately decorated with American and British flags, led the way for the tour of the field.

One of the first stops was the cyclorama, which the two men had expressed a desire to see. Both Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay expressed pleasure with the large painting of Pickett's charge.

Other stops on the battlefield were made at Reynolds' monument, Little Round Top and Bloody Angle, and all along the tour the two distinguished visitors voiced their appreciation of the guide's recital. For both Mr. Churchill and Sir Lindsay the tour of the battlefield was their first, and both expressed the hope that they might return again soon.

Mr. Churchill, a rather stout man, still shows scars on his face, the result of being struck by a taxi-cab in New York city several weeks ago, shortly after he arrived from England for a lecture tour of the United States. Sir Lindsay is typically English, being almost six feet two inches tall, with a ruddy complexion.

CALL SOLDIERS IN KENTUCKY

Extra Precautionary Measures Are Taken Before Protest Meeting.

Barbourville, Ky., Feb. 16 (AP)—Fifty special policemen were sworn in Sunday, a company of national guardsmen arrived Sunday night from Harlan, and the Barbourville national guard unit will stand by for use if needed in halting a scheduled national miners' union demonstration here today.

The state troops were requested by County Judge Frank Baker after the town was flooded with inflammatory circulars calling upon union members to make a mass protest here today against the killing of Harry Simms, alias Symes, who was fatally wounded by a mine guard last week.

Guard Unit Ordered Out

Gov. Ruby Laffoon, at Frankfort, ordered thirty men of the Harlan national guard unit to Barbourville. The Harlan troops will be under the command of Capt. Doc L. Nolan. They were reported ready to move from Harlan at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

Chief of Police Ralph Mayhew swore in the extra force of policemen and issued them arms. Capt. Ben C. Herndon, commander of a national guard unit of sixty-five men here, said he would not call out the local guard unless the situation warranted, but that the troops would be held in readiness.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Some tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

Gun And Rope Found In Hotel Room; Wanted To Buy $20,000 In Gems.

New York, Feb. 16.—Dominick Capizio, a salesman from Baltimore, who is suspected of attempting to steal $20,000 worth of jewels from a branch store of the firm of Betteridge, Inc., Fifth avenue jewelers, was held in $2,500 bail in Yorkville court charged with violation of the Sullivan law.

Capizio's arrest Saturday night was made on the complaint of a clerk in the branch store, 301 Park avenue.

Called At Store

The clerk, whose name was not revealed by the police, said Capizio called at the store Saturday and selected the jewelry, saying that he wanted to make his wife a present.

He refused, however, to give his personal check and return for the gems Monday, as the clerk suggested. Later he asked that the jewels be brought to his room in the Waldorf-Astoria for further inspection, and the clerk, becoming suspicious, notified the police.

Pistol Found in Room

In Capizio's room, which he occupied under the name of Damatris McDonald, the police found a pistol and a length of sash cord. He said later, according to the police, that he intended to use the rope or the gun to commit suicide if he was unable to find employment here.

The police believe he proposed to get the clerk in his room, bind and gag him and make off with the jewels.

GIRL ALTITUDE RECORD BROKEN

Ruth Nichols Soars 20,000 Feet In "Flying Furnace" Sunday Afternoon.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Ruth Nichols, society aviator, Sunday flew Clarence Chamberlin's "Flying Furnace" to a new altitude record, on the basis of an unofficial reading of her altimeter. When she landed it registered 21,300 feet, while Chamberlin's official record for the craft was 19,363 feet.

Miss Nichols took off at 5:15 p. m. from Floyd Bennett airport and landed an hour and one minute later after an exciting flight.

She encountered temperatures of 15 degrees below zero, she said, and at 20,000 feet two of her cylinders blew out. At that height, too, she was forced to use her oxygen tank.

In addition to the sealed barograph, which was taken from the plane at once to be sent to Washington for official calibration, Miss Nichols had three altimeters, two of which went out of commission in the upper atmosphere. The unofficial reading was taken from the third altimeter.

Despite her crippled engine and the fact that she had no brakes, she made a perfect landing and announced she had enjoyed the flight. She circled over Flushing most of the time.

Her unofficial altimeter reading was greater than that of Chamberlin after his flight, and it was believed that official calibration would establish the new record for planes of this type.

Chamberlin was present as her technical adviser, and gave last-minute instructions as she stepped into the cockpit, wearing a heavy flying suit, lined boots and a purple scarf wound about her head instead of a helmet.

The plane carried fifteen gallons of furnace oil and one tank of oxygen.

Several hundred spectators braved a cold, strong wind to watch the take-off.

Miss Nichols holds several records and has reached an altitude of 28,743 feet in a gasoline plane.

ANIMALS IN AFRICA
By Mary Graham Bonner

"Time to start. Animals in Africa awaiting you. Your friend, Surprises, Maker of Magic."

This was the note John and Peggy found in front of the box where they kept their toys.

"Come on, Peggy," John shouted. "We don't want to miss that trip. I guess I'd rather see those animals than anything else in the world."

Peggy followed right after John. They walked down to the end of the garden path expecting to meet Wag-Wag-Wag, the Magic Maker's dog.

They knew he would start them on the right way. But not only did they see Wag-Wag-Wag at the foot of the path, but the Magic Maker was there, too, and so was the pilot who had taken them on many of their journeys to foreign parts.

Wag-Wag-Wag jumped about the children with great glee, and the Magic Maker said,

"We're certainly glad to see that you're here in such a short time. Wag-Wag-Wag and I are going back to our home in the woods, and the pilot is going to see that you get to Africa safely and show you around the country a bit.

"He has all the instructions. We'll see you again some time!"

"Oh, yes," said John.

As John and Peggy flew along in the plane with the pilot they looked at an animal map that had been given to them, and they realized how many animals they were to see.

"Crocodiles!" John shouted as he pointed to them on the animal map. They looked cruel even though sleepy as they were pictured resting along the river Nile.

"We're going to see camels and gazelles, too," the pilot shouted through a horn that raised his voice above the sound of the motor, and now he told them more of what was ahead of them.

Seeks Pension For Filipino

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Representative Harry L. Haines, of the York-Adams-Franklin district, Tuesday introduced a bill in congress providing for the granting of a pension to a Filipino ward of Spencer F. Shearer, former resident of York, but at present a major in the Philippine scouts. Major Shearer's mother resides at 409 North George street, York.

The bill seeks to correct what Major Shearer, although an officer in the United States army, terms an injustice to his ward, Rafael Manuguid, and natives of the islands who fought on the side of the United States in the early fights to subdue the Filipinos.

At the time of the insurrection there was no law permitting the enlistment of natives of the islands in the United States army, and they were hired as day laborers by the quartermaster corps and then equipped with uniform and arms and sent out to fight their own countrymen.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—The stock market fluctuated irregularly but met support today on dull reaction. Overnight buying orders gave most leaders a moderate lift at the opening when trading was in heavy volume. This rise encountered quick profit taking but the market became quiet on the setback and quotations steadied.

STUDENTS HEAR TWO LECTURES

Dr. Leo F. Stock And Dr. Frederick Paulding Speak At St. Joseph's.

Several lectures of interest were presented to the students of St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, recently. "The Liar," a dramatic monologue, was given by Dr. Frederick Paulding, Litt.D., and a historical lecture, "Duels and Dueling," by Dr. Leo F. Stock.

"The Liar," a play written by the French dramatist, Corneille, follows an old production entitled "Truth Verified." It is a masterpiece of sparkling wit and comedy.

Doctor Paulding, a dramatic interpreter, enacted the drama, scene for scene.

The plot is woven about a young man who persists in lying, not because it is necessary, for he is wealthy, but for the sheer enjoyment he derives from this variety of amusement. For a time his excellent imagination sustains him, but presently his poor memory gets him into trouble. Entanglements increase, his resourcefulness fails, and he has to admit that "there never was a truly sucessful liar."

"The Emerald Isle claims the distinction for originating the custom of dueling," Doctor Stock asserted in his lecture. A detailed account of the spread of this destructive practice was then given.

Soon after the colonists arrived in America, duels were fought, Doctor Stock said. Dueling ethics were based upon "The Twenty-Six Commandments of Ireland,' though variations were made to suit local conditions.

Dueling in the dark, like "Dancing in the Dark," was once popular, but it was banned by legislation. The most important duels fought in America were between Philip Hamilton (son of Alexander) and Andrew Jackson; Henry Clay and John Randolph, and Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr.

Today the government has recognized the criminality involved and dueling is prohibited. Doctor Stock's concluding words were that this form of fighting was a menace to society and had not been removed too soon. They caused much harm and entailed no benefit.

Heiges Named To Fair Rate Board

Representative George D. Sheely, New Oxford; Burgess C. A. Heiges, Gettysburg; A. J. White Hutton and J. Chase Mowery, both of Chambersburg, were named as a committee from the thirty-third district, comprising Adams and Franklin counties, to arrange a campaign throughout Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania fair rate association.

The appointments were made by A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, president of the fair rate association.

The association will swing into action in earnest this week. Two rallies, aimed at bringing the domestic consumer into organized support of a statewide campaign to correct allegedly excessive public utility rates, are planned for Pittsburgh. Other similar meetings will be held throughout the state before the primary election, it was stated.

Burgess Heiges this morning said he had not yet received official notification of his appointment and did not know what the fair rate association had planned for Adams and Franklin counties.

Cleveland Elects Democratic Mayor

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Complete official compilations of ballots in Tuesday's mayoralty election gave County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller, democrat, a majority of 7,703 votes over former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, republican. The vote: Miller (D.) 102,632; Morgan (R.) 94,923.

Miller's election shattered a record of 17 years of republican rule in Cuyahoga county.

Democrats were flushed with success over the apparent demoralization of the republican faction headed by Maurice Maschke, republican leader and national committeeman.

Miller's victory was conceded less than two hours after the polls closed on a bitter municipal election, one that brought out the greatest vote other than for a presidential election.

A bystander was shot in the leg and wounded slightly after an argument between a Morgan worker and a Miller supporter flared into gun play. The wounded man, Paul Jones, 19, said he was standing near a booth when the Miller man drew a gun and fired, the shot missing his foe.

Pinchot Scores Senate Action

Harrisburg, Feb. 17 (AP)—"Billions for big business but not one cent for bread for a starving child," was Governor Pinchot's comment today on the senate's defeat of the LaFollette-Costigan $750,000,000 direct relief bill.

"If the American people were not in doubt as to who owns and operates the government in Washington," the governor said, "this ought to settle it."

Orange and Blue Lose Hard Battle to Possums 26 to 21

Getttysburg lost a hard fought basketball game to Franklin and Marshall college, at Lancaster, Tuesday night, 26 to 21, and dropped one and one-half games behind the league-leading Possums.

The Bullets, sorely missing the services of Captain Seely, were slow in hitting their stride while the Possums piled up a lead of several points in the first half. In the last five minutes of the initial period the Bullets sagged considerably and the Possums nosed to the front with a 15-9 score at half time.

In the second half Howard and Olkewicz were ejected on personal fouls and Eby and Kitzmiller substituted.

The frail Gettysburg high product, Kitzmiller, came into his own, flashed brilliantly and scored two field goals and a free toss to knot the count, when it appeared that all hopes had faded. With the score tied at 21 all there remained but one and one-half minutes to play.

The Bullets struggled valiantly, but their coordinated teamwork went into a shambles as the Possums annexed a coveted field goal to go into the lead at 23-21. Then the Possums started to freeze the ball. The Bullet defense went into offensive action to recover the ball and the Lancastrians slipped through the broken offense to score another two pointer. Then a free heave gave them their five point margin to give them undisputed claim to first place in the league standing.

Buohl was high scorer for the Bullets with eight points. Smoker totaled nine for the Possums.

George Washington

due to his own education which he got by reading books and imitating those of the learned class.

Interested In West

He was popular because of his interest in the west and the problem of expansion of the colonies. Another contributing force to his greatness was his being a "country gentleman," not one of the aristocracy. His knowledge of the thirteen colonies due to his travels, his methodical business-like habits, his encouragement for local industries and his advocating the equality of the colonists to the English were fundamental factors in his greatness, said Professor Fox.

As a man, Washington commanded the respect of all those that knew him. In the face of temptations, animosity and criticism, Washington always commanded himself, never wavering from his ideals, Professor Fox then recounted how Washington, when many of the leading men of his day had advocated the continental army taking command of congress and bringing to the fore Washington as a dictator, had rebuked the leaders and had succeeded in turning the conspirators against such plans.

ROOSEVELT CALLS FARLEY

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Laying down the rule that an elected official under inquiry "owes a positive public duty" to give a "credible explanation" or large bank accounts, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today demanded that Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, of New York county, give an accounting with his own lips.

HAS LICENSE RESTORED

HARD LUCK

Gettysburg fell one and one-half games behind Franklin and Marshall in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate basketball league standing, Tuesday night, when they lost to the Lancastrians 26 to 21. The Bullets missed the services of Captain Seely who was ordered to the infirmary Tuesday afternoon with water on the knee.

Buyer Locates Still On Farm

A small still was discovered along a small stream back of the old Ott sawmill, near Blue mountain, Monday afternoon by Edward Miller, of Blue Ridge Summit, who on Saturday purchased the property from Mrs. John F. Ott.

Mr. Miller was walking over the land when he noticed some smoke. Further investigation revealed a small still, which had been in recent operation. A lard can, through which ran coils, was located at the side of a stream, which had been dammed for the purpose of distilling liquor, police said. The fire under the boiler was still burning when Mr. Miller discovered it. At the side of the boiler was a jug containing a small amount of alleged "applejack," police said.

The new owner at once notified Mrs. Ott, who in turn summoned Waynesboro police. The equipment was turned over to the sheriff's office in Chambersburg.

No trace of the operator was found.

Church Given Half Of Estate

Approximately half of the $30,000 estate of Mrs. Alice M. Heagy, Steelton, is bequeathed to United Brethren church institutions in her will filed for probate at the Dauphin county register's office. The Steelton bank and trust company is named executor of the estate, which includes $25,000 real estate and $5000 in personal property.

The Quincy orphanage and old people's home at Quincy is bequeathed $2000 and the United Brethren church extension society received $2000. A $3000 trust fund is created for the Women's missionary association of the church.

Mrs. Belle Orris Ritchie, Annville, a niece, inherits a Mt. Gretna property and the interest from a $10,000 trust fund. The fund will be inherited later by a great niece and namesake of Mrs. Heagy, Alice Mary Ritchie.

The interest from a $5000 trust fund is inherited by a servant, Julia W. Frey, and at her death it will revert to the residuary estate. Three lots in the Heagy development in Steelton Heights are inherited by a nephew, Eugene Orris, Steelton, and four lots in the same development, are inherited by another nephew, Tolbert Brown, Steelton.

The residue of the estate is bequeathed to Lebanon Valley college to create scholarships for needy young men and women of the denomination.

Five Killed In Crossing Crash

Philadelphia, Feb. 17 (AP)—Four men were killed, a fifth died several hours later and another was seriously injured in a crossing collision Tuesday on the Reading railroad at Island road, near Seventy-ninth street, in the extreme southwest section of the city.

The men were riding to work in a small truck which was struck by a fast freight train.

The dead were Frank Johnson, 46; Marion Gozdan, 56; John Yablonski, 36; Joseph Stuski, 38, and Thomas Martin, 40.

Daniel Murphy, 38, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. Martin died in a hospital of a fractured skull.

Stop-Go Signals for Fish May Be Used in Maryland

Baltimore, Feb. 17.—Fish soon may be guided electrically along Maryland's river and stream highways in much the same manner as traffic is controlled by stop-and-go signals.

Swepson Earle, state conservation commissioner, disclosed Monday he was studying a device which, if found to be practicable in Maryland waters, may save his department considerable expense and trouble in protecting fish from side traffic dangers along their watery courses.

The idea, which involves shocking the fish by electricity to steer them away from danger spots, has been put into operation successfully by an electrical engineer of the Oregon state college working in cooperation with the United States bureau of fisheries. Mr. Earle sees no reason why Maryland's fish should not get the same protection, especially spawning fish, which sometimes wander upstream beyond the state hatcheries.

Wire barriers ordinarily are used to detour fish from danger channels, such as hydraulic turbines, but the mesh is so small that they soon become clogged with leaves debris, according to Mr. Earle.

On the other hand, electrodes strung across the mouths of danger spots or across streams to stop traffic beyond a certain point will gently shock the fish back into safer areas, Mr. Earle believes. The traffic signal will simply be against them.

Mr. Earle said he was investigating the plan and, in the event he adopts it for use in Maryland, it will be put into effect at first probably at the different state fish hatcheries.

SENATE REJECTS JOBLESS DOLE

Vote Down 48-35 La Follette-Costigan 750 Million Dollar Dole Bill.

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP).—The senate Tuesday night refused to establish the precedent of appropriating government funds for direct relief to the unemployed.

The stand of President Hoover against direct federal aid was upheld when the senate rejected the La Follette-Costigan $750,000,000 measure by a vote of 48 to 35. The vote came long after the usual time for adjournment.

Party Lines Forgotten

Party lines went to pieces on the roll call which closed more than two weeks of intense debate.

Twenty-one democrats joined twenty-seven republicans in opposing after their own substitute providing for government loans to states had been turned down. Fifteen republicans supported the bill.

Previously, half a dozen substitute and compromise plans for extending relief from the treasury had been turned down, as sponsors of federal aid to the unemployed fought among themselves about the method of distribution.

Democrats who had sponsored loans to states instead of gifts gave notice, however, that the struggle was not over, as they introduced their $750,000,000 defeated substitute as a separate bill.

The decision, regarded by both sides as momentous, came shortly before 7 o'clock, after the senate had debated all day long before crowded galleries.

La Follette in Eloquent Appeal

In an eloquent appeal, Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, one of the sponsors of the bill, asked for its enactment. He said previous votes had disclosed a recognition of the need for federal aid by a majority of the senate and asserted throughout the long weeks of debate only three members had challenged it.

They were, he said, Senators Fess, republican, Ohio; Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts.

"I appeal to the senators not to be as blind as the Bourbons of France before the revolution," La Follette said.

Girl Ordered From Bombay

Bombay, Feb. 17 (AP)—The British government ordered Miss Madeline Slade, who forsook London society, adopted the name Shrimati Mira Behn and became a follower of Mahatma Gandhi, to abstain from all unlawful activities and get out of Bombay within twenty-four hours.

Miss Slade said she wouldn't budge. "If you are going to arrest me, please don't disturb my sleep at midnight," she declared.

The order was issued by Sir Patrick Kelly, commissioner of police, and was based on the emergency ordinances forbidding all nationalist activities, which were proclaimed to put down the Mahatma's civil disobedience campaign. Miss Slade is about the only one of Gandhi's principal assistants remaining at liberty.

It was reported that when she was confronted with the government order she said: "Come any time Thursday morning and you will still find me here. I don't propose to leave Bombay to oblige the police commissioner, and I shall carry on my usual work."

AMUSEMENTS

Majestic

William Boyd, that "double-dyed" deceiver of the film plots, is back in his celluloid element again in "The False Madonna." Paramount romance-drama of modern life which comes to the Majestic theatre today.

Boyd's most memorable characterizations have been those of "bad men." He was Gary Cooper's antagonist in "The Spoilers," and tried to spoil the romance of Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "Gun Smoke." In "The Gang Buster" he tried to bust things up between Jack Oakie and Jean Arthur. In "The Road to Reno" he was the would-be nemesis of Buddy Rogers and Peggy Shannon.

In "The False Madonna," Boyd appears as the master-mind of a gang of crooks who operate in three continents, mulcting their victims of millions of dollars. Kay Francis is seen as one of the gang, an erstwhile respectable society woman, beautiful, stylish, well-mannered. It is when Kay is sent out as the chief decoy in a scheme to return the missing mother to a youth who will inherit a vast fortune that Boyd's empire of crookedness falls about his head. For Kay balks at the deceitfulness of her errand, after she develops a motherly love for their youthful intended victim.

SYNOPSIS: The marriage of Hope Ross and Dickey Dale has been annulled by Hope's father, but Hope is determined to see Dickey, who is in college at Harmouth. Mr. Ross has told Hope that Dickey has not tried to see her, knowing he prevented the meeting. Hope wants to get even.

Chapter 22

WEEK-END ADVENTURE

Judy lit a cigarette and frowned with deep thought.

She had a date herself that week-end—a previous date with Tom Post—the guy you couldn't such a lemon in front of when he worked. But Judy never even mentioned the date.

She planned to go visit her Aunt Meg in Boston—and Hope was to accompany her. They'd fix it with Judy's and Hope's families, and fix it with Aunt Meg, who remembered her handkerchief-flirtatious youth, and adored to help Judy in any adventure that smacked of romance.

The flippancy with which Hope expressed her thanks was deliberately used between them and deeply understood. Judy could understand the pale determination in Hope's thinning face, but Hope could never understand what it cost Judy to forego her own week-end. But the sacrifice was worth it, for Hope seemed slightly more able to face the gruelling routine of winter, with Judy's lie to protect her when the time came.

In February — because Charlie had an opportunity to go to Europe—Goody and Charlie Rand were married. And many's the ship that has been launched with far less excitement and cost than the wedding of the elder daughter of John Howard Ross.

Hope steeled herself, trying not to feel scalded and poisoned at the sight of Goody's joy. Trying to throw herself into the preparations, and running herself ragged in her effort to show Goody that she wasn't envious, and that she did wish Goody all the happiness she had missed for herself. Endless were Hope's activities until at last Mama Ross, touched and comforted, turned the bulk of the details into Hope's surprisingly capable hands. The more Hope worked and planned for Goody's wedding, the closer she felt to her sister, for the first time in her life. Yet each day, the sadder and more lonely she felt for herself, until she verged on self-pity that required newer and greater deviltries to forestall what she termed "sloppy sentimentality."

But the strain was great. And nobody was more relieved than Hope—not even the bride herself—when at last the wedding was accomplished. Church and ivory satin, flowing lace veil that swept into a train, organ music that made your heart bulge against your ribs, choral voices and misty eyes, sonorous words spoken by the minister and listened to by a soupy-eyed churchful, reporters and cameramen, Charlie damp and whitely nonchalant, Goody seraphic and transformed by her costume into a symbol of all womanly bliss. . . .

While Hope stood behind her, in peach chiffon, a huge be-flowered picture hat on her golden head, her eyes fixed on the pearls that rode up and down, up and down, on Goody's chest as she breathed. . . . Hope, with a sweet smile and tender eyes, never once showing the white feather, never once giving sign of her innermost thoughts.

"I should have been standing there," pounded her heart, "dressed like that, with Dickey by my side. And then he wouldn't have had to leave me, because I wouldn't have been disinherited at all." And I wouldn't care if he loved me just for my money as long as he loved me. . . . Only what's the use of a man like that? I'm better off without him. God knows if I can't find a man to be a man, I'll go to my grave an old maid. If that organ doesn't quit, I'll go crazy. . . . Gee, now we'll have a big reception. And Goody'll get dressed and sail tonight on the big boat, and have a swell honeymoon; and she's got enough presents to keep her for life.

"Charlie is a nice boy, but heaven forbid I'l ever fall for anybody like him. If I could find somebody just like Dickey, only a real red-blooded man like he seemed to be—a man who'd put up a fight for you and face the music. . . . Oh hell, they don't make men like that, I suppose. . . . Maybe I'll go out and get a job as a nice little shop-girl or in an office somewhere and not give my name. And see what kind of men I'd meet, and what kind of men care for a girl just for herself and not for what she's got. . . .

"Look at Goody! She'll burst with happiness. Look at Mother; she's so proud of Goody, and she was so ashamed of me! Who the hell cares who's ashamed of me! Was it my fault I picked a bum to love? I guess I'm only attracted to bums. If only Dickey would give me a tumble again, I'd be smack at his feet—like fun I would! I'll go up to that Prom, and maybe I won't give him a razzle-dazzle he won't forget in one big hurry! I'll go up there and show him what they mean by this here business of a woman scorned. . . ."

But Hope, up in Harmouth, hadn't a chance to give Dickey Dale a razzle-dazzle. Not a chance! For all that she had planned so carefully, getting Judy to lie for her, for all that she had hardly been able to sit still beside Betty Preston on the long ride up in the train; for all that she dressed for the big dance with a nervousness she hadn't known since the first time she had fibbed to her mother about smoking, for all that her gown and her entire outfit was the most stunning, the most expensive, and the most breathlessly selected in over a year. Hope hadn't a chance!

Twosome Hubbard and Tuck Hall (a big, strapping moron, with a wart on his chin, rubbery lips, and a grudge against the world) had met Hope and Betty at the station, and conducted them to the fraternity house where they were both inmates. Betty, assigned with a girl in the chorus to Twosome's room, and Hope, bunked with a Canadian beauty in Tuck's, immediately proceeded to coax and bribe their roommates to swap, so that Betty and Hope might be together in Tuck's room.

Not a word was spoken about Dickey Dale then or later, as they dropped over to a basketball game, had dinner at a near-by restaurant, and went back to their room to dress, with admonitions from the boys to be ready in three hours at least.

It was while they were dressing that Betty poured out her heart. She knew Hope had seen quite obviously that her beloved Twosome was ill—pale, nervous and jumpy. He was, Betty explained a bit tearfully, so nervous that he was almost out of his mind. The truth was that Twosome was the bootlegger of Harmouth. The boy had to work his way through college, and inasmuch as his only asset was a speedy foreign car, plus the fact that Harmouth was near the Canadian border, Twosome made a run at least once a month.

But now he was terrified; not only because he had been chased more than once in the last winter; but also because the boys talked—boasted of Twosome's brave adventures when he raced up to Canada and back again with no headlights. Betty admitted to Hope (who wasn't listening) how brave she thought her Twosome was, but she so dreadfully wanted him to quit. Twosome thought only of the disgrace and sorrow on his widowed mother if he were caught, and the stretch he might have to do; but Betty thought of the physical dangers of her darling—the shots from the chasing car, the headlong speed on the dark roads. . . . Her one aim was to make Twosome quit before he was a nervous wreck who jumped at the sound of his own name.

Hope sighed as the tragedy trickled through her preoccupied mind, and turned to comfort Betty, and offer impulsively, whatever money Twosome needed to finish his education. He could pay her back any time. . . . And then she snapped irritably at Betty's grateful tears, smothering the wish that someone would comfort her in her own heartache.

But the shock came during the second dance at the big hall. When Twosome Hubbard, guiding Hope carefully through the crowded floor, opined that hers must have been a painful and thunderous marriage.

"Why?" Hope frowned whimsically up into his face.

"Well, Dale heard yesterday afternoon that you were coming and he beat it like a shot!"

"Beat it?"

"Back to town. He's gone down to New York to see his father."

"But"—Hope managed to seem amused, and in spite of the dizzy chill that had suddenly struck her—"what about the girl—the girl he was having up to the Prom?"

"How do I know?" grinned Twosome. "Maybe there wasn't any such critter. Dale's been sour as five-day milk all this year. I found out a lot about him. He hasn't had a girl or gone to a hop since last Yom Kippur."

"Oh—really?"

TEXAS LOOP TO SPONSOR NEW CLASS D CIRCUITS

Dallas, Texas (AP).—Texas league club owners may lend financial as well as moral support to organization of one or more class D leagues in the state this year.

President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas circuit is in sympathy with such a move. He believes it would prove a "career saver" for many young players who have no chance of sticking in class A baseball—the only classification now organized in Texas.

Plans are under way to form at least two class D leagues to serve as farms for Texas league clubs.

He was, Betty explained a bit tearfully, so nervous that he was almost out of his mind. The truth was that Twosome was the bootlegger of Harmouth. The boy had to work his way through college, and inasmuch as his only asset was a speedy foreign car, plus the fact that Harmouth was near the Canadian border, Twosome made a run at least once a month.

But now he was terrified; not only because he had been chased more than once in the last winter; but also because the boys talked—boasted of Twosome's brave adventures when he raced up to Canada and back again with no headlights. Betty admitted to Hope (who wasn't listening) how brave she thought her Twosome was, but she so dreadfully wanted him to quit. Twosome thought only of the disgrace and sorrow on his widowed mother if he were caught, and the stretch he might have to do; but Betty thought of the physical dangers of her darling—the shots from the chasing car, the headlong speed on the dark roads. . . . Her one aim was to make Twosome quit before he was a nervous wreck who jumped at the sound of his own name.

Hope sighed as the tragedy trickled through her preoccupied mind, and turned to comfort Betty, and offer impulsively, whatever money Twosome needed to finish his education. He could pay her back any time. . . . And then she snapped irritably at Betty's grateful tears, smothering the wish that someone would comfort her in her own heartache.

But the shock came during the second dance at the big hall. When Twosome Hubbard, guiding Hope carefully through the crowded floor, opined that hers must have been a painful and thunderous marriage. .

"Why?" Hope frownd whimsically up into his face.

"Well, Dale heard yesterday afternoon that you were coming and he beat it like a shot!"

"Beat it?"

"Back to town. He's gone down to New York to see his father."

"But"—Hope managed to seem amused, and in spite of the dizzy chill that had suddenly struck her—"what about the girl—the girl he was having up to the Prom?"

"How do I know?" grinned Twosome. "Maybe there wasn't any such critter. Dale's been sour as five-day milk all this year. I found out a lot about him. He hasn't had a girl or gone to a hop since last Yom Kippur."

"Oh—really?"

TEXAS LOOP TO SPONSOR NEW CLASS D CIRCUITS

Dallas, Texas (AP).—Texas league club owners may lend financial as well as moral support to organization of one or more class D leagues in the state this year.

President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas circuit is in sympathy with such a move. He believes it would prove a "career saver" for many young players who have no chance of sticking in class A baseball—the only classification now organized in Texas.

Plans are under way to form at least two class D leagues to serve as farms for Texas league clubs.

Borotra To Defend Indoor Net Crown

Paris (AP)—Jean Borotra, one of France's now scattered "Three Musketeers" of the tennis courts, expects to leave for the United States February 25 to defend his indoor singles title.

Borotra's appearance in outdoor competition is unlikely, though French tennis fans hope to persuade him to participate in the defense of the Davis cup, where it is felt he will be sorely needed. Rene Lacoste has definitely announced he will not be available, and with Borotra also out it appears the chief burden will fall on Henri Cochet.

Seeks Pension For Filipino

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Representative Harry L. Haines, of the York-Adams-Franklin district, Tuesday introduced a bill in congress providing for the granting of a pension to a Filipino ward of Spencer P. Shearer, former resident of York, but at present a major in the Philippine scouts. Major Shearer's mother resides at 409 North George street, York.

The bill seeks to correct what Major Shearer, although an officer in the United States army, terms an injustice to his ward, Rafael Manuguid, and natives of the islands who fought on the side of the United States in the early fights to subdue the Filipinos.

At the time of the insurrection there was no law permitting the enlistment of natives of the islands in the United States army, and they were hired as day laborers by the quartermaster corps and then equipped with uniform and arms and sent out to fight their own countrymen.

Dr. Leo F. Stock And Dr. Frederick Paulding Speak At St. Joseph's.

Several lectures of interest were presented to the students of St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, recently. "The Liar," a dramatic monologue, was given by Dr. Frederick Paulding, Litt.D., and a historical lecture, "Duels and Dueling," by Dr. Leo F. Stock.

"The Liar," a play written by the French dramatist, Corneille, follows an old production entitled "Truth Verified." It is a masterpiece of sparkling wit and comedy.

Doctor Paulding, a dramatic interpreter, enacted the drama, scene for scene.

The plot is woven about a young man who persists in lying, not because it is necessary, for he is wealthy, but for the sheer enjoyment he derives from this variety of amusement. For a time his excellent imagination sustains him, but presently his poor memory gets him into trouble. Entanglements increase, his resourcefulness fails, and he has to admit that "there never was a truly sucessful liar."

"The Emerald Isle claims the distinction for originating the custom of dueling," Doctor Stock asserted in his lecture. A detailed account of the spread of this destructive practice was then given.

Soon after the colonists arrived in America, duels were fought, Doctor Stock said. Dueling ethics were based upon "The Twenty-Six Commandments of Ireland," though variations were made to suit local conditions.

Dueling in the dark, like "Dancing in the Dark," was once popular, but it was banned by legislation. The most important duels fought in America were between Philip Hamilton (son of Alexander) and Andrew Jackson; Henry Clay and John Randolph, and Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr.

Today the government has recognized the criminality involved and dueling is prohibited. Doctor Stock's concluding words were that this form of fighting was a menace to society and had not been removed too soon. They caused much harm and entailed no benefit.

Heiges Named To Fair Rate Board

Representative George D. Sheely, New Oxford; Burgess C. A. Heiges, Gettysburg; A. J. White Hutton and J. Chase Mowery, both of Chambersburg, were named as a committee from the thirty-third district, comprising Adams and Franklin counties, to arrange a campaign throughout Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania fair rate association.

The appointments were made by A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, president of the fair rate association.

The association will swing into action in earnest this week. Two rallies, aimed at bringing the domestic consumer into organized support of a statewide campaign to correct allegedly excessive public utility rates, are planned for Pittsburgh. Other similar meetings will be held throughout the state before the primary election, it was stated.

Burgess Heiges this morning said he had not yet received official notification of his appointment and did not know what the fair rate association had planned for Adams and Franklin counties.

Cleveland Elects Democratic Mayor

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Complete official compilations of ballots in Tuesday's mayoralty election gave County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller, democrat, a majority of 7,703 votes over former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, republican. The vote: Miller (D.) 102,632; Morgan (R.) 94,923.

Miller's election shattered a record of 17 years of republican rule in Cuyahoga county.

Democrats were flushed with success over the apparent demoralization of the republican faction headed by Maurice Maschke, republican leader and national committeeman.

Miller's victory was conceded less than two hours after the polls closed on a bitter municipal election, one that brought out the greatest vote other than for a presidential election.

A bystander was shot in the leg and wounded slightly after an argument between a Morgan worker and a Miller supporter flared into gun play. The wounded man, Paul Jones, 19, said he was standing near a booth when the Miller man drew a gun and fired, the shot missing his foe.

Pinchot Scores Senate Action

Harrisburg, Feb. 17 (AP)—"Billions for big business but not one cent for bread for a starving child," was Governor Pinchot's comment today on the senate's defeat of the LaFollette-Costigan $750,000,000 direct relief bill.

"If the American people were not in doubt as to who owns and operates the government in Washington," the governor said, "this ought to settle it."

Orange and Blue Lose Hard Battle to Possums 26 to 21

Getttysburg lost a hard fought basketball game to Franklin and Marshall college, at Lancaster, Tuesday night, 26 to 21, and dropped one and one-half games behind the league-leading Possums.

The Bullets, sorely missing the services of Captain Seely, were slow in hitting their stride while the Possums piled up a lead of several points in the first half. In the last five minutes of the initial period the Bullets sagged considerably and the Possums nosed to the front with a 15-9 score at half time.

In the second half Howard and Olkewicz were ejected on personal fouls and Eby and Kitzmiller substituted.

The frail Gettysburg high product, Kitzmiller, came into his own, flashed brilliantly and scored two field goals and a free toss to knot the count, when it appeared that all hopes had faded. With the score tied at 21 all there remained but one and one-half minutes to play.

The Bullets struggled valiantly, but their coordinated teamwork went into a shambles as the Possums annexed a coveted field goal to go into the lead at 23-21. Then the Possums started to freeze the ball. The Bullet defense went into offensive action to recover the ball and the Lancastrians slipped through the broken offense to score another two pointer. Then a free heave gave them their five point margin to give them undisputed claim to first place in the league standing.

Buohl was high scorer for the Bullets with eight points. Smoker totaled nine for the Possums.

George Washington

Interested In West

He was popular because of his interest in the west and the problem of expansion of the colonies. Another contributing force to his greatness was his being a "country gentleman," not one of the aristocracy. His knowledge of the thirteen colonies due to his travels, his methodical business-like habits, his encouragement for local industries and his advocating the equality of the colonists to the English were fundamental factors in his greatness, said Professor Fox.

As a man, Washington commanded the respect of all those that knew him. In the face of temptations, animosity and criticism, Washington always commanded himself, never wavering from his ideals, Professor Fox then recounted how Washington, when many of the leading men of his day had advocated the continental army taking command of congress and bringing to the fore Washington as a dictator, had rebuked the leaders and had succeeded in turning the conspirators against such plans.

Buyer Locates Still On Farm

A small still was discovered along a small stream back of the old Ott sawmill, near Blue mountain, Monday afternoon by Edward Miller, of Blue Ridge Summit, who on Saturday purchased the property from Mrs. John F. Ott.

Mr. Miller was walking over the land when he noticed some smoke. Further investigation revealed a small still, which had been in recent operation. A lard can, through which ran coils, was located at the side of a stream, which had been dammed for the purpose of distilling liquor, police said. The fire under the boiler was still burning when Mr. Miller discovered it. At the side of the boiler was a jug containing a small amount of alleged "applejack," police said.

The new owner at once notified Mrs. Ott, who in turn summoned Waynesboro police. The equipment was turned over to the sheriff's office in Chambersburg.

No trace of the operator was found.

Church Given Half Of Estate

Approximately half of the $30,000 estate of Mrs. Alice M. Heagy, Steelton, is bequeathed to United Brethren church institutions in her will filed for probate at the Dauphin county register's office. The Steelton bank and trust company is named executor of the estate, which includes $25,000 real estate and $5000 in personal property.

The Quincy orphanage and old people's home at Quincy is bequeathed $2000 and the United Brethren church extension society received $2000. A $3000 trust fund is created for the Women's missionary association of the church.

Mrs. Belle Orris Ritchie, Annville, a niece, inherits a Mt. Gretna property and the interest from a $10,000 trust fund. The fund will be inherited later by a great niece and namesake of Mrs. Heagy, Alice Mary Ritchie.

The interest from a $5000 trust fund is inherited by a servant, Julia W. Frey, and at her death it will revert to the residuary estate. Three lots in the Heagy development in Steelton Heights are inherited by a nephew, Eugene Orris, Steelton, and four lots in the same development, are inherited by another nephew, Tolbert Brown, Steelton.

The residue of the estate is bequeathed to Lebanon Valley college to create scholarships for needy young men and women of the denomination.

Stop-Go Signals for Fish May Be Used in Maryland

Baltimore, Feb. 17.—Fish soon may be guided electrically along Maryland's river and stream highways in much the same manner as traffic is controlled by stop-and-go signals.

Swepson Earle, state conservation commissioner, disclosed Monday he was studying a device which, if found to be practicable in Maryland waters, may save his department considerable expense and trouble in protecting fish from side traffic dangers along their watery courses.

The idea, which involves shocking the fish by electricity to steer them away from danger spots, has been put into operation successfully by an electrical engineer of the Oregon state college working in cooperation with the United States bureau of fisheries. Mr. Earle sees no reason why Maryland's fish should not get the same protection, especially spawning fish, which sometimes wander upstream beyond the state hatcheries.

Wire barriers ordinarily are used to detour fish from danger channels, such as hydraulic turbines, but the mesh is so small that they soon become clogged with leaves debris, according to Mr. Earle.

On the other hand, electrodes strung across the mouths of danger spots or across streams to stop traffic beyond a certain point will gently shock the fish back into safer areas, Mr. Earle believes. The traffic signal will simply be against them.

Mr. Earle said he was investigating the plan and, in the event he adopts it for use in Maryland, it will be put into effect at first probably at the different state fish hatcheries.

SENATE REJECTS JOBLESS DOLE

Vote Down 48-35 La Follette-Costigan 750 Million Dollar Dole Bill.

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—The senate Tuesday night refused to establish the precedent of appropriating government funds for direct relief to the unemployed.

The stand of President Hoover against direct federal aid was upheld when the senate rejected the La Follette-Costigan $750,000,000 measure by a vote of 48 to 35. The vote came long after the usual time for adjournment.

Party Lines Forgotten

Party lines went to pieces on the roll call which closed more than two weeks of intense debate.

Twenty-one democrats joined twenty-seven republicans in opposing after their own substitute providing for government loans to states had been turned down. Fifteen republicans supported the bill.

Previously, half a dozen substitute and compromise plans for extending relief from the treasury had been turned down, as sponsors of federal aid to the unemployed fought among themselves about the method of distribution.

Democrats who had sponsored loans to states instead of gifts gave notice, however, that the struggle was not over, as they introduced their $750,000,000 defeated substitute as a separate bill.

The decision, regarded by both sides as momentous, came shortly before 7 o'clock, after the senate had debated all day long before crowded galleries.

La Follette in Eloquent Appeal

In an eloquent appeal, Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, one of the sponsors of the bill, asked for its enactment. He said previous votes had disclosed a recognition of the need for federal aid by a majority of the senate and asserted throughout the long weeks of debate only three members had challenged it.

They were, he said, Senators Fess, republican, Ohio; Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts.

"I appeal to the senators not to be as blind as the Bourbons of France before the revolution," La Follette said.

Girl Ordered From Bombay

Bombay, Feb. 17 (AP)—The British government ordered Miss Madeline Slade, who forsook London society, adopted the name Shrimati Mira Behn and became a follower of Mahatma Gandhi, to abstain from all unlawful activities and get out of Bombay within twenty-four hours.

Miss Slade said she wouldn't budge. "If you are going to arrest me, please don't disturb my sleep at midnight," she declared.

The order was issued by Sir Patrick Kelly, commissioner of police, and was based on the emergency ordinances forbidding all nationalist activities, which were proclaimed to put down the Mahatma's civil disobedience campaign. Miss Slade is about the only one of Gandhi's principal assistants remaining at liberty.

It was reported that when she was confronted with the government order she said: "Come any time Thursday morning and you will still find me here. I don't propose to leave Bombay to oblige the police commissioner, and I shall carry on my usual work."

AMUSEMENTS

Majestic

William Boyd, that "double-dyed" deceiver of the film plots, is back in his celluloid element again in "The False Madonna," Paramount romance-drama of modern life which comes to the Majestic theatre today.

Boyd's most memorable characterizations have been those of "bad men." He was Gary Cooper's antagonist in "The Spoilers," and tried to spoil the romance of Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "Gun Smoke." In "The Gang Buster" he tried to bust things up between Jack Oakie and Jean Arthur. In "The Road to Reno" he was the would-be nemesis of Buddy Rogers and Peggy Shannon.

In "The False Madonna," Boyd appears as the master-mind of a gang of crooks who operate in three continents, mulcting their victims of millions of dollars. Kay Francis is seen as one of the gang, an erstwhile respectable society woman, beautiful, stylish, well-mannered. It is when Kay is sent out as the chief decoy in a scheme to return the missing mother to a youth who will inherit a vast fortune that Boyd's empire of crookedness falls about his head. For Kay balks at the deceitfulness of her errand, after she develops a motherly love for their youthful intended victim.

Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself:

I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

Especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

My manner of life from my youth, which was at first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews;

Which knew me from the beginning, if they would testify, that after the most straitest sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee.

And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers:

Unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

Whereupon as I went to Damascus with the authority and commission from the chief priests,

At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking to me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

But arise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee,

To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me.

Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance.

HISTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

A Chronological Review Of Things That Have Gone Before, And The Trials And Tribulations Of Our Ancestors, As Published Serially For The Benefit Of Gettysburg Times' Readers.

Hamilton Township

Conowago creek forms the entire northern boundary, and Little Conowago creek the entire western boundary of this township. Here they are spirited streams, rushing and splashing along their zigzag course. Muncy run flows westward, and Pine run northward, both feeders of these creeks, and drainers of the southwest and central portions of Hamilton. Beaver creek forms the eastern boundary of the township, entering Conowago creek at the extreme northeastern part of the township.

While there are several pretentious hills there are no mountainous tracts. The soil is red gravel, flinty, and very productive. The surface rolls heavily in parts, but large tracts of comparatively level land exist. The elevation of East Berlin, above the Atlantic level is 550 feet. Pine Hill, near East Berlin, just north of the creek, contains a mineral resembling umber. In this neighborhood the brown stone used in building Conowago Chapel in 1787 was found.

The Berlin & Hanover Turnpike was constructed in 1811.

Ice Carries Away Bridge

In 1820 the bridge at Geiselman's mill, East Berlin, was built by Sebastian Hafer. It was 213 feet lond with seven arches, and cost $5,000. During the ice-flow of 1825 this was carried away, and in 1826 the present wooden bridge was erected. In 1826 Amos Green built the covered wooden bridge at East Berlin for $3,850. In 1832 the wooden bridge on Little Beaver creek, below East Berlin at Smith's mill, was built for the two counties by Jacob Laumaster, for $1,595. In 1860 J. M. Pittenturf built a wooden bridge at East Berlin for $545. The iron bridge over Beaver creek, near East Berlin, was built by the two counties in the fall of 1884.

The population of Hamilton township in 1820 was 1,076, and of East Berlin, 418; in 1830, 1,047; in 1840, 1,068; in 1850, 1,166 (including 2 colored); in 1860, 1,119 (including 2 colored); in 1870, 1,118, and in 1880, 721. The population of East Berlin in 1880 was 510. The number of tax-payers in Hamilton township (1886) is 235; value of real estate, $365,494; number of horses, etc., 23; of cows, etc., 334; value of moneys at interest, $2,105; value of trades and professions, $5,970; number of carriages, 122; acres of timber land, 533½.

Hamilton township was formed out of Berwick in 1810.

The single men residing in the township in 1811 were Jacob Baker, blacksmith, with Widow Baker; Emmanuel Carpenter, of Berlin; Chris Hollinger, with father; Abram Jacob, weaver, with father; Adam Long, with father; Adam Mummert, blacksmith Berlin; Henry and Jacob Miller, with Jacob Miller, Sr.; William McIlvain, physician; Thomas Stephen, physician; John Sower, with Adam Sower; John B. Smith, Berlin; Casper Wise, with Abram Wise; Peter Wort, with David Wilson; Bausitch Anthony, with William Saddles; Charles Becknell, with Christian Pickings. The total assessment was $254,812, and the tax levy was 10 cents per $100.

Hamilton, through its delegate to the convention of November 4, 1834, J. Miller, voted against the adoption of the common school law; some time later the township adopted the law.

Railroad Completed

The Berlin branch railroad was proposed in 1835, but not until 1877 was the present road from Red Hill, near New Oxford, to East Berlin, via Abbottstown, completed. East Berlin subscribed $27,000 and Abbottstown $15,000. The contractors were Nicholas Fleigle, B. B. Gonder & Sons, Cyrus Diller and a few subscribers. L. Williams was the track-layer.

Crosskeys, at the crossing of the York and Hanover and Carlisle turnpikes, was founded in 1801 by William Gitt. Henry Gitt purchased it in 1806 and opened a hotel, which was continued until 1834. The house is still standing, now occupied by E. C. Gitt.

Green Ridge postoffice was established in this township near the John Ross farm; existed for about six years and was then discontinued.

(Thursday—East Berlin.)

THE QUESTION'S ANSWER

By Mary Graham Bonner

John and Peggy were sitting outside the hangar along the magic path with Surprises. Wag-Wag had come in answer to his master's whistle, and Peggy was stroking one of his brown ears.

The sun shone on the silvery wings of John's plane, and from where they sat they could see his name painted on the side, and when they moved their heads a little they could see the plane with Peggy's name on it.

"I don't understand how we won the races so easily," John said. "I had no trouble winning mine, and Peggy had no trouble winning hers, Peggy can beat almost any other girl running, but when you turned the time ahead I thought we wouldn't have a chance.

"John almost always wins running races," Peggy spoke up, "but he won that with hardly any trouble at all."

Surprises laughed. "You see you're ahead of the children of the future in many ways. They know more about planes and how to pilot them, but they're not so good at running races.

"Well, well, well, we've been quite busy lately, and now Wag-Wag-Wag must have me home with him once more, and I must mix more mixtures for other adventures.

"In the meantime you must be ready to start soon for Africa. There are lots of animals there for you to see."

"Oh, yes," said John, "we haven't seen animals for ever so long. And there are lions in Africa, and tigers and elephants and all kinds."

"Maybe I could play with some baby lions. They look something like kittens," said Peggy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ATTUNED

WE live upon the plane with which we are most attuned. Water seeks its level. So do human beings. They seek not only their level, but they have what water does not have—the ability to establish their own level. We humans may raise our level—place it where we will! And then we may lift others to that level.

The romantic story of the human race is just this. From poverty to affluence. From obscurity to fame and renown. It's all a matter of properly attuning our minds and hearts and souls to that about us—hurling the hidden and hungering desires within us—into that vast space of opportunity upon which the human will lives and has its being, or its hope for immortality.

No matter what our station, or from what humble surroundings we have sprung, if that mysterious "something" is born within us that desires harmony and beauty, then may we count our inheritance in happiness indeed.

What an asset—this being ever attuned to the faintest touch of aroma of that which floats into our hearts and minds, transforming us into courageous and happy human beings! No matter what other influences are at work in the world, if this gift or ability to tune into that which is separate and apart, representing loveliness and nobility and real greatness, belongs to us, then we have something that no turn of the wheel of fortune can ever change to loss.

You have to put alloy into pure gold to change it. Even then its purity is only scattered. It longs to return to its native state of purity. That is the way it is with each of us who has known what it is to be attuned to the forces of life. That standard becomes the light which rules our little destiny. It keeps us a pure product.

Beauty is always attuned to everything about it. Ugliness may be about it on every hand, yet it takes to itself nothing of it.

Last summer I took my boat and spent hours reaching into the mud in order that I might gather an armful of white pond lilies. Out of that black mud I drew each stem—but the magically beautiful white lilies were attuned to the blue sky and the sunlight and the clean air. They were tuned to my love of them. They arose from the mud. They wanted to become attuned to their kind!

JANET COMPLAINS

I'm tired of being nine years old
And always doing as I'm told,
I'm tired of saying what I should;
Tired of rememb'ring to be good,
And tired of being fit to see,
Dressed up in things picked out for me.

I'm sure it must be nice to be
As old as thirty-two or three
And have nobody telling you
What's wrong with everything you do.
I'm tired of being called back to say
"Excuse me, please," and "if I may."

It must be nice to come and go
And never hear the cry: "No! No!"
Or sit at table, and when they
Pass spinach greens, look up and say,
"No thank you," and not start a row
And have to eat them anyhow.

I'm tired of being sent to bed,
Of being washed and being fed,
Of being thoughtful and polite,
Of doing things exactly right.
I'm tired of hearing people scold;
I'm tired of being nine years old.

Tunnel Plans Kept Alive By Spaniards

Madrid (AP)—Despite the low ebb in Spanish finances, a government commission headed by Lieutenant Colonel Pedro Jenevois continues to study the possibility of building a railroad tunnel under the strait of Gibraltar.

Recently the commission reported that rock structure, similar to that of Gibraltar and the African bluffs, extends under the strait.

Officials of the communications department believe the undertaking ultimately will find financial support in France, Belgium and other nations which woud be benefitted by a railroad connection with their African colonies.

EXCITEMENT IS THRILLING

but ACCURACY is Fundamental

When aroused human emotions play an important part in a vital event, the excitement surrounding it is an interesting angle of news. The confusion of such an occasion makes the assignment doubly difficult for the conscientious reporter, who must convey to his readers a true picture of the situation. He may not allow momentary hysteria to outshadow its true significance in his dispatches.

The Associated Press staff, through experience and background, is trained to cope with these emergencies. This association's editors and reporters are experts in distinguishing between the material and immaterial, rumors and realities, biased propaganda and substantiated truths. Their stories present every significant angle in its proper light.

The Associated Press serves no interests of economics, politics or religion. Its scrupulous observance of the founders' mandate of unvarying fairness has won universal confidence and respect.

Good News for the Over-fat

Medical science has discovered a great cause of excess fat. Not lazy habits, not over-eating, though such things contribute. A certain gland grows weak, then too much of your energy food goes to fat. Since that discovery, doctors the world over supply the lacking factor. And excess fat, in late years, has been disappearing fast.

Marmola prescription tablets embody that same factor. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now youthful figures in almost every circle show what Marmola does.

If you need this help, go get Marmola now. A book in each box tells you all about it. At all druggists—$1.

Good News for the Over-fat

Medical science has discovered a great cause of excess fat. Not lazy habits, not over-eating, though such things contribute. A certain gland grows weak, then too much of your energy food goes to fat. Since that discovery, doctors the world over supply the lacking factor. And excess fat, in late years, has been disappearing fast.

Marmola prescription tablets embody that same factor. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Now youthful figures in almost every circle show what Marmola does.

If you need this help, go get Marmola now. A book in each box tells you all about it. At all druggists—$1.

Read The Bible With Us Daily

Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself:

I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

Especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

My manner of life from my youth, which was at first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews:

Which knew me from the beginning, if they would testify, that after the most straitest sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee.

And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers:

Unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

Whereupon as I went to Damascus with the authority and commission from the chief priests,

At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking to me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

But arise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee,

To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me.

Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance.

HISTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

A Chronological Review Of Things That Have Gone Before, And The Trials And Tribulations Of Our Ancestors, As Published Serially For The Benefit Of Gettysburg Times' Readers.

Hamilton Township

Conowago creek forms the entire northern boundary, and Little Conowago creek the entire western boundary of this township. Here they are spirited streams, rushing and splashing along their zigzag course. Muncy run flows westward, and Pine run northward, both feeders of these creeks, and drainers of the southwest and central portions of Hamilton. Beaver creek forms the eastern boundary of the township, entering Conowago creek at the extreme northeastern part of the township.

While there are several pretentious hills there are no mountainous tracts. The soil is red gravel, flinty and very productive. The surface rolls heavily in parts, but large tracts of comparatively level land exist. The elevation of East Berlin, above the Atlantic level is 550 feet. Pine Hill, near East Berlin, just north of the creek, contains a mineral resembling umber. In this neighborhood the brown stone used in building Conowago Chapel in 1787 was found.

The Berlin & Hanover Turnpike was constructed in 1811

Ice Carries Away Bridge

In 1820 the bridge at Geiselman's mill, East Berlin, was built by Sebastian Hafer. It was 213 feet lond with seven arches, and cost $5,000. During the ice-flow of 1825 this was carried away, and in 1826 the present wooden bridge was erected. In 1826 Amos Green built the covered wooden bridge at East Berlin for $3,850. In 1832 the wooden bridge on Little Beaver creek, below East Berlin at Smith's mill, was built for the two counties by Jacob Lausmaster, for $1,595. In 1860 J. M. Pittenturf built a wooden bridge at East Berlin for $545. The iron bridge over Beaver creek, near East Berlin, was built by the two counties in the fall of 1884

The population of Hamilton township in 1820 was 1,076, and of East Berlin, 418; in 1830, 1,047; in 1840, 1,068; in 1850, 1,166 (including 2 colored); in 1860, 1,119 (including 2 colored); in 1870, 1,118, and in 1880, 721. The population of East Berlin in 1880 was 510. The number of tax-payers in Hamilton township (1886) is 235; value of real estate, $365,494; number of horses, etc., 23; of cows, etc., 334; value of moneys at interest, $2,105; value of trades and professions, $5,970; number of carriages, 122; acres of timber land, 533½.

Hamilton township was formed out of Berwick in 1810.

The single men residing in the township in 1811 were Jacob Baker, blacksmith, with Widow Baker; Emmanuel Carpenter, of Berlin; Chris Hollinger, with father; Abram Jacob, weaver, with father; Adam Long, with father; Adam Mummert, blacksmith Berlin; Henry and Jacob Miller, with Jacob Miller, Sr.; William McIlvain, physician; Thomas Stephen, physician; John Sower, with Adam Sower; John B. Smith, Berlin; Casper Wise, with Abram Wise; Peter Wort, with David Wilson; Bausitch Anthony, with William Saddles; Charles Becknell, with Christian Pickings. The total assessment was $254,812, and the tax levy was 10 cents per $100.

Hamilton, through its delegate to the convention of November 4, 1834, J. Miller, voted against the adoption of the common school law; some time later the township adopted the law.

Railroad Completed

The Berlin branch railroad was proposed in 1835, but not until 1877 was the present road from Red Hill, near New Oxford, to East Berlin, via Abbottstown, completed. East Berlin subscribed $27,000 and Abbottstown $15,000. The contractors were Nicholas Fleigle, B. B. Gonder & Sons, Cyrus Diller and a few subscribers. L Williams was the track-layer.

Crosskeys, at the crossing of the York and Hanover and Carlisle turnpikes was founded in 1801 by William Gitt Henry Gitt purchased it in 1806 and opened a hotel, which was continued until 1834. The house is still standing, now occupied by E. C. Gitt.

Green Ridge postoffice was established in this township near the John Ross farm; existed for about six years and was then discontinued.

SUNDOWN STORIES

THE QUESTION'S ANSWER

By Mary Graham Bonner

John and Peggy were sitting outside the hangar along the magic path with Surprises. Wag-Wag-Wag had come in answer to his master's whistle, and Peggy was stroking one of his brown ears.

The sun shone on the silvery wings of John's plane, and from where they sat they could see his name painted on the side, and when they moved their heads a little they could see the plane with Peggy's name on it.

"I don't understand how we won the races so easily," John said. "I had no trouble winning mine, and Peggy had no trouble winning hers, Peggy can beat almost any other girl running, but when you turned the time ahead I thought we wouldn't have a chance.

"John almost always wins running races," Peggy spoke up, "but he won that with hardly any trouble at all."

Surprises laughed. "You see you're ahead of the children of the future in many ways. They know more about planes and how to pilot them, but they're not so good at running races.

"Well, well, well, we've been quite busy lately, and now Wag-Wag-Wag must have me home with him once more, and I must mix more mixtures for other adventures.

"In the meantime you must be ready to start soon for Africa. There are lots of animals there for you to see."

"Oh, yes," said John, "we haven't seen animals for ever so long. And there are lions in Africa, and tigers and elephants and all kinds."

"Maybe I could play with some baby lions. They look something like kittens," said Peggy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ATTUNED

WE live upon the plane with which we are most attuned. Water seeks its level So do human beings. They seek not only their level, but they have what water does not have—the ability to establish their own level We humans may raise our level—place it where we will! And then we may lift others to that level.

The romantic story of the human race is just this! From poverty to affluence From obscurity to fame and renown. It's all a matter of properly attuning our minds and hearts and souls to that about us—hurling the hidden and hungering desires within us—into that vast space of opportunity upon which the human will lives and has its being, or its hope for immortality.

No matter what our station, or from what humble surroundings we have sprung, if that mysterious "something" is born within us that desires harmony and beauty, then may we count our inheritance in happiness indeed.

What an asset—this being ever attuned to the faintest touch of aroma of that which floats into our hearts and minds, transforming us into courageous and happy human beings! No matter what other influences are at work in the world, if this gift or ability to tune into that which is separate and apart, representing loveliness and nobility and real greatness, belongs to us, then we have something that no turn of the wheel of fortune can ever change to loss.

You have to put alloy into pure gold to change it. Even then its purity is only scattered. It longs to return to its native state of purity. That is the way it is with each of us who has known what it is to be attuned to the forces of life. That standard becomes the light which rules our little destiny. It keeps us a pure product.

Beauty is always attuned to everything about it. Ugliness may be about it on every hand, yet it takes to itself nothing of it.

Last summer I took my boat and spent hours reaching into the mud in order that I might gather an armful of white pond lilies. Out of that black mud I drew each stem—but the magically beautiful white lilies were attuned to the blue sky and the sunlight and the clean air. They were tuned to my love of them. They arose from the mud. They wanted to become attuned to their kind!

JANET COMPLAINS

I'm tired of being nine years old
And always doing as I'm told,
I'm tired of saying what I should;
Tired of remembering to be good,
And tired of being fit to see,
Dressed up in things picked out for me.

I'm sure it must be nice to be
As old as thirty-two or three
And have nobody telling you
What's wrong with everything you do.
I'm tired of being called back to say
"Excuse me, please," and "if-I may."

It must be nice to come and go
And never hear the cry: "No! No!"
Or sit at table, and when they
Pass spinach greens, look up and say,
"No thank you," and not start a row
And have to eat them anyhow.

I'm tired of being sent to bed,
Of being washed and being fed,
Of being thoughtful and polite,
Of doing things exactly right.
I'm tired of hearing people scold;
I'm tired of being nine years old.

COAL MINING INCREASES

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—One hundred years ago the first lumps of coal were taken from Alabama's coal fields, and in 1840 records show 946 tons were mined. Production grew until the peak year of 1930, when 16,007,405 tons were produced.

Divorce is not mentioned in the proposed new India constitution.

Night Coughing Quickly Stopped

In a few minutes after taking Thoxine, a doctor's famous prescription, your cough stops. It acts on a new principle—relieves throat irritation and goes direct to the internal cause not reached by ordinary cough remedies.

Most coughs are caused by an irritated throat. Thoxine stops these at once. Safe for the whole family—guaranteed no dope. Money back if not satisfied. 35c. People's Drug Store and all other good drug stores.

Tunnel Plans Kept Alive By Spaniards

Madrid (AP)—Despite the low ebb in Spanish finances, a government commission headed by Lieutenant Colonel Pedro Jenevois continues to study the possibility of building a railroad tunnel under the strait of Gibraltar.

Recently the commission reported that rock structure, similar to that of Gibraltar and the African bluffs, extends under the strait.

Officials of the communications department believe the undertaking ultimately will find financial support in France, Belgium and other nations which woud be benefitted by a railroad connection with their African colonies.

Kansas City (AP).—Charley (The Chipper) Hyatt, Uniontown boy who made good in a University of Pittsburgh basketball uniform, still roams the courts in a way that spreads consternation among rival teams of the Tulsa Oilers.

EXCITEMENT IS THRILLING but ACCURACY is Fundamental

When aroused human emotions play an important part in a vital event, the excitement surrounding it is an interesting angle of news. The confusion of such an occasion makes the assignment doubly difficult for the conscientious reporter, who must convey to his readers a true picture of the situation. He may not allow momentary hysteria to outshadow its true significance in his dispatches.

The Associated Press staff, through experience and background, is trained to cope with these emergencies. This association's editors and reporters are experts in distinguishing between the material and immaterial, rumors and realities, biased propaganda and substantiated truths. Their stories present every significant angle in its proper light.

The Associated Press serves no interests of economics, politics or religion. Its scrupulous observance of the founders' mandate of unvarying fairness has won universal confidence and respect.

Politics At Random

By BYRON PRICE

Whether they succeed or not, it cannot be denied that the democrats are making heroic efforts this year to pocket their differences and pull together for victory in November.

This is worth remarking, because it is out of the ordinary. The traditional tendency of democratic leaders is to put conviction on the highest pedestal, scorn compromise and defy the consequences.

Everyone knew the free silver excursion in '96 would split the party. No one could have doubted the prolonged Madison Square deadlock in '24 would have serious consequences on election day.

Whoever sits through any ordinary democratic convention must recognize the tremendous driving power of those conflicting emotions which meet time and again before the show is over.

Of course plenty of dynamite remains in the democratic arsenal, and now and then the sound of explosions reaches the public ear. But it is impressive, whether or not it is prophetic, to see the constant vigilance by which so many democratic disagreements are being smothered out privately, just as republican dissensions have been smothered so often and so successfully in the past.

Shouse Active

For months the active center of this pressure for coordination has been the party headquarters in Washington, under Jouett Shouse. To have such a control unit really functioning between campaign years was, in itself, a novelty for the democrats.

The scope of Shouse's activities has been far greater than the public realizes.

Recently a new democratic novelty has appeared. A joint committee of senators and representatives is trying to work out quietly a party policy on legislation.

When trouble over committee places appeared in the new democratic house, the party leaders retired for a week of prayerful conference. They emerged with a committee slate unanimously acceptable, although it meant that some veterans took great personal sacrifices in the interest of harmony.

Seek Dry Law Harmony

Now definite steps have been proposed to do something about prohibition and the tariff.

Chairman Raskob's proposal for a prohibition referendum, without party commitment either for or against repeal, surprised his colleagues at the national committee meeting in Washington, in view of his own firm opposition to the dry law.

It is true many drys did not accept the referendum plan as anything but a modified wet proposal, but at least Raskob's gesture divested the January committee session of much of the turmoil and bitterness displayed when it met last March.

The democratic tariff bill now pending is calculated likewise to bottle up hot democratic words which otherwise might find their way into the congresional record.

There are democratic congressmen who would like to tear the present tariff law into microscopic bits, and there are other democratic congressmen who voted for that law, and have not changed their minds.

With no public display of this disagreement, the new proposal undertakes to bridge the gap by merely declaring a broad party policy without going too much into detail.

See Promised Land

The reason for this "sweet reasonableness" need be no mystery.

From the vantage-point of recent victories the democrats have seen a vision of the promised land, which they aspire to reach in November if only the brothers can be kept from destroying one another along the way.

The new field, which is located in the rear of the high school, was re-conditioned last year and consists of a quarter-mile track which encloses an evenly sodded field. The upper countians point with pride to the finest athletic field in the county and will make every effort to have the field in top-notch shape for May Day.

Franklin and Marshall's strong quintet has gained a fair hold on first place in the league with its victory over Gettysburg Tuesday night. These clubs meet in the final league game of the year at Gettysburg and this may be the title-deciding game.

Much to the satisfaction of all concerned, the high school basketball season is rapidly drawing to a close. But two more home games remain on the Maroon schedule, Steelton high appearing here Saturday and Lebanon on Friday, February 26. Tonight the Maroons journey to Lancaster to battle the Red Tornado.

Announcement has been made by the Fleet-Wing management that a benefit game for the hospital will be played Wednesday, March 2. The Charlestown American Legion team, conquerors of the Wings, will be the opponents. This game is being sponsored by the hospital auxiliary and will be staged on the college floor.

Bolstered by the addition of several new stars, the Cumberland Knights of Columbus will come here tonight determined to wreck the Fleet-Wings' undefeated string on the home court. Cashtown and the state highway teams will meet in the preliminary game at 7:15 o'clock.
